High Street bakery forced to close for one - and rather large - disgusting reason after rat filmed running around the shelves

This stomach-churning footage shows a four-legged customer - complete with a long tail – who couldn't wait to take his cream cake home before munching on it.

The rather large rodent was spotted scampering around the tray of frosted doughnut before deciding which one to eat.

The rat can be seen running across the shelf behind the glass and nibbling at whatever takes his fancy.

It was caught on camera by a fellow shopper who was disgusted at what he saw and uploaded the footage to YouTube, where it has been viewed more than 80,000 times.

The footage was shot in a Tops supermarket in central Bangkok, Thailand earlier this week.

Central Food Retail, who own Tops supermarket, told the Daily Star the store would be closed for a number of days while a pest control company is brought in to deal with the infestation.

In fact this rat can't wait to take his cake home - it nibbles it on the pastry shelf

"The company admits our mistake, and we sincerely apologise for the inevitable incident at the branch in question," the company said in a statement.
